MEET THE FOUNDERS

The Tale of Two Petes

Pete Reichert and Pete Williams have been collaborating together since their days at MTV. Reichert first worked on the landmark animated television show Beavis and Butthead, and then served as Supervising/Executive Director for MTV Development. It was in that capacity that Reichert hired Williams as an animator. There, the two worked together on several animation projects. They have been collaborating together since their days at MTV. Along with sharing the same name, the two also discovered they shared a great love for holidays – Halloween in particular. By 2005 they both had left MTV, and they jumped into creating CG-animated ghosts, monsters and other ghastly creatures for theme parks, haunted houses, stadiums and other commercial endeavors. Soon they asked themselves the question: "Why can't we create the same animations for the general public that can be used as decorations?" That's the moment when AtmosFX was born.

AtmosFX digital decorations look excellent in outdoor displays!

However, you must exercise caution when using digital projectors outdoors. Most projectors are not weather-sealed and can be damaged by exposure to rain or dirt. Setting up a projector outside will void the warranty on the AtmosFX Holiday Digital Decoration Kit, as with most digital projectors, because they are designed primarily for indoor use.

To set up outdoor digital decorations you may need the following tools:

- ▶ An extension cord (optional depending on where you want to place the projector)
- ▶ A projector (or two or three... go crazy! you can never have too many!)
- ▶ A cover case for your projector (highly recommended, depending on your climate)
Some decorators simply monitor the weather and take the projector inside when there are signs of rain, but you may also consider covering your projector.

Some DIY solutions are as simple as covering the projector with a cardboard box. More advanced decorators have built custom dust-proof and water resistant enclosures for long term use.

But be careful! Your box must allow for proper air circulation. Without air circulation your projector may overheat and become damaged.

Many decorators like using Hollusion Projection Material outside to create effects like a skeleton from Bone Chillers emerging from the ground! Hollusion Projection Material is made of a durable, washable mesh. It can be left in the rain, but water droplets on the material might distort the image.

If your material becomes dirty, we recommend a machine washing with warm water followed by a cool rinse, then use a tumble dry setting on low to finish.

Don't use an iron on the Hollusion Projection Material, this will probably damage the material.

We recommend that you experiment with your home set-up until you are pleased with the results.

MEET THE FOUNDERS

The Tale of Two Petes

Pete Reichert and Pete Williams have been collaborating together since their days at MTV. Reichert first worked on the landmark animated television show Beavis and Butt-head, and then served as Supervising/Executive Director for MTV Development.

It was in that capacity that Reichert hired Williams as an animator. There, the two worked together on several animation projects. They have been collaborating together since their days at MTV. Along with sharing the same name, the two also discovered they shared a great love for holidays – Halloween in particular. By 2005 they both had left MTV, and they jumped into creating CG-animated ghosts, monsters and other ghastly creatures for theme parks, haunted houses, stadiums and other commercial endeavors. Soon they asked themselves the question: "Why can't we create the same animations for the general public that can be used as decorations?" That's the moment when AtmosFX was born.

RESELLER FAQ

Can I get a variety pack with different decorations instead of 12 of the same decoration?

A: Short answer, no. The longer answer would take longer to grok and probably you're not interested in what that is, since we just said 'no'. Thanks for playing though!

I would like a cheaper price than the one listed in the Reseller Catalog. Are there any deals we can make?

A: Short answer, no. The longer answer would take longer to grok and probably you're not interested in what that is, since we just said 'no'. Thanks for playing though!

Is 12 really the minimum quantity? Can I get less?
